MR. PRINTER,

ON reading an advertiſment in your Gazette of the 16th of November laſt, I muſt crave the liberty of the preſs, to take ſome notice of what was then and there inſerted.—It ſet forth, that a "maſter was wanted for the free-ſchool at Buris-"ford's Bounty, in the pariſh of St. Thomas; that "ſuch maſter muſt be perſonally known to the veſ-"try of ſaid pariſh, or bring proper teſtimonials of his "former good behaviour, ſobriety and diligence."—It appears very ſtrange, that after my ſerving the ſaid veſtry 5 years and upwards, that this former well-behaved, diligent, ſober man ſhould now be wanted, while I ſtill continue in the ſervice of thoſe gentlemen.—ſurely ſomething muſt be the matter, (what? they beſt know themſelves,) it has a kind of an alluſion to a line of a good old ſong, with a very ancient chorus to it. "'Tis this and that, and "they cannot tell what;" tho' at preſent I am not in a ranging humour, becauſe it has a meaning or tendency, that my actions muſt have been quite the reverſe.—I am thankful to thoſe worthy gentlemen in Charles-Town (12 or 14 in number) who in October 1762, recommended the ſubſcriber, and which he thought almoſt equal to a teſtimonial; and I hope thoſe gentlemen will ſuſpend any ill opinion of me until I ſhall ſee further.—In the mean time, if the veſtry (gentleman of fortune) will but conſent and ſubſcribe their names, certifying my negligence, ill behaviour, or intemperance, at any one particular time or place, ſince I commenced maſter of this beautiful, profitable free ſchool (ſo intended) I will then plead guilty, and pay the penalty for his trouble; but can it be ſuppoſed, thoſe gentlemen would (conſident with their corporation oath, as "faithful veſtry men) indulge thoſe failings to this preſent time, having continued me in their ſervice both before, and ever ſince the following words in the Gazettes, wrote by the perſon himſelf for that purpoſe, and reſpectively ſigned with their own hands. JOHN THOMAS.

At a viſitation of the free ſchool, founded by Richard Binckſford Eſq; and ſituated, in the pariſh of St. Thomas, Berkley County, held the 20th day of July 1763, by the incorporated veſtry of the ſaid pariſh, as truſtees for ſaid ſchool

AFTER a ſtrict examination of the children on this foundation, in the ſeveral branches of reading, writing and arithmetic, &c. and a particular ſurvey of their cloaths and entertainment; it was unanimouſly agreed, by the ſaid board, that Mr. John Thomas, the preſent maſter of the ſaid ſchool, had given them intire ſatisfaction, both as to his care and education of the ſaid children, during the time they have employed him, and that it was their opinion he deſerved encouragement; and therefore thought it juſt to give him this public teſtimony of their approbation of his conduct, as maſter of the ſaid ſchool.

LETTERS from a FARMER in PENNSYLVANIA, to the Inhabitants of the BRITISH COLONIES.

LETTER I.

Beloved Countrymen,

I AM a farmer, settled, after a variety of fortunes, near the banks of the river Delaware, in the province of Pennsylvania. I received a liberal education, and have been engaged in the busy scenes of life; but am now convinced, that a man may be as happy without bustle, as with it. My farm is small; my servants are few, and good; I have a little money at interest; I wish for no more; my employment in my own affairs is easy; and with a contented grateful mind, undisturbed by wordly hopes or fears, relating to myself, I am completing the number of days allotted to me by divine goodness.

Being master of my time, I spend a good deal of it in a library, which I think the most valuable part of my small estate; and being acquainted with two or three gentlemen of abilities and learning, who honour me with their friendship, I have acquired, I hope, a greater knowledge in history, and the laws and constitution of my country, than is generally attained by men of my class, many of them not being so fortunate as I have been in the opportunities of getting information.

From my infancy I was taught to love Humanity and Liberty. Reflection and experience have since confirmed my reverence for the lessons then given me, by convincing me more fully of their truth and excellence. Benevolence towards mankind, excites wishes for their welfare, and such wishes endear the means of fulfilling them. These can be found in Liberty only: therefore her sacred cause ought to be espoused, by every man, on every occasion, to the utmost of his power. As a charitable, but poor person does not withhold his Alms, because he cannot relieve all the distresses of the miserable, so let not any honest man suppress his sentiments concerning Freedom, however small their influence is likely to be. Perhaps he "may touch some wheel," that will have an effect greater than he expects.

These being my sentiments, I am encouraged to offer to you, my countrymen, my thoughts on some late transactions, that appear to me to be of the utmost importance to you. Conscious of my own defects, I have waited some time, in expectation of seeing the subject treated of by persons much better qualified for the task; but being therein disappointed, and apprehensive that longer delays will be dangerous, I venture at length to acquaint the attention of the public, praying only for one thing, that is, that their lives may be read with the same zeal for the happiness of British America, with which they were wrote.

With a good deal of surprize I have observed, that little notice has been taken of an act of parliament, as injurious to its principle to the liberties of these colonies, as the Stamp Act was: I mean the act for regulating the legislation of New York.

The assembly of that government complied with a former act of parliament, requiring certain provisions to be made for the troops in America, in every particular, I think, except the articles of fuel, pepper and vinegar. In my opinion they acted imprudently, considering all circumstances, in not complying so far as would have given satisfaction, as several colonies did: But my dislike of their conduct in that instance, has not blinded me so much, that I cannot plainly perceive, that they have been punished in a manner pernicious to American Freedom, and justly alarming to all the Colonies.

If the British parliament has a legal authority to order, that we shall furnish a single article for the troops here, and to compel obedience to that order, they have the same right to order us to supply those troops with arms, cloaths, and every necessary; and to compel obedience to that order also; in short, to lay any burdens they please upon us. What is this but taxing us at a certain sum, and leaving to us only the manner of raising it? How is this mode more tolerable than the Stamp Act? Would that act have appeared more pleasing to Americans, if being ordered thereby to raise the sum total of the taxes, the mighty privilege had been left to them, of saying how much should be paid for an instrument of writing on paper, and how much for another on parchment?

An act of parliament, commanding us to do a certain thing, if it has any validity, is a Tax upon us for the expence that accrues in complying with it; and for this reason, I believe, every colony on the continent, that chose to give a mark of respect to Great Britain, in complying with the act relating to the troops, cautiously avoided the mention of that act, lest their conduct should be attributed to its supposed obligation.

The matter being thus stated, the assembly of New York either had, or had not, a right to refuse compliance to that act. If they had, and limiting it to America will say they had not, then the parliament had no right to compel them to execute it. If they had not that right, they had no right to suspend the legislation with his appointments. In fact, if the people of New York cannot be legally taxed but by their own representatives, they cannot be legally deprived of the privilege of making laws, only for refusing on that very account the privilege of Taxation. If they may be legally deprived in such a case, of the usual right of making laws, why may they not, with equal reason, be deprived of every other privilege? For why may not every colony be treated in the same manner, when any of them shall dare to deny their assent to any impositions, that shall be inflicted? Or were they punished by the repeal of the Stamp Act, if those colonies are to lose their other privileges, by not immediately considering that of Taxation?

There is one consideration arising from this subject, which is not generally attended to, but that seems of importance very clearly. It was not necessary that the suspension should be caused by an act of parliament. The Crown might have restrained the governor of New York, even from calling the assembly together, by its prerogative in the royal government. This step I suppose, would have been taken, if the conduct of the assembly of New York had been regarded as an act of disobedience to the mutiny act; but it is regarded as an act of Disobedience to the Authority of the British Legislature. This gives the Extension a complexion entirely new. It is a parliamentary assertion of the supreme authority of the British legislature over the Colonies in the Point of Taxation, and is calculated to COMPEL New York into a submission to THAT authority. It seems therefore to me as much a violation of the Liberties of the people of that province, and consequently of all those Colonies, as if the parliament had sent a number of regiments to be quartered upon them till they should comply. For it is evident, that the suspension is meant as a compliance; and the method of compelling is totally indifferent. It is indeed probable, that the sight of red coats, and the hearing of drums, would have been most alarming; because people are generally more influenced by their eyes and ears than by their reason. But whoever seriously considers the matter, must perceive that a dreadful stroke is aimed at the Liberty of these colonies; for the cause of one is the cause of all. If the parliament may lawfully deprive New-York of any of her rights, it may deprive any, or all the other colonies of their rights; and nothing can possibly so much encourage such attempts, as a mutual inattention to the interests of each other. To divide, and thus destroy, is the first political maxim in attacking those, who are powerful by their union. He certainly is not a wise man, who folds his arms, and reposes himself at home, viewing, with unconcern, the flames that have invades his neighbour's house, without using any endeavours to extinguish them. When Mr. Hampden's ship money cause, for three shillings and four pence, was tried, all the people of England, with anxious expectation, interested themselves in the important decision; and when the slightest point, touching the Freedom of one colony, is agitated, I earnestly wish, that all the rest may, with equal ardour, support their sister. Very much may be said on this subject; but, I hope, more at present is unnecessary.

With concern I have observed, that two assemblies of this province have sat and adjourned, without taking any notice of this act. It may perhaps be asked, what would have been proper for them to do? I am by no means fond of inflammatory measures; I detest them, I should be sorry that any thing should be done, which might justly displease our sovereign, or our mother country: But a firm, modest exertion of a free spirit, should never be wanting on public occasions. It appears to me, that it would have been sufficient for the assembly, to have ordered our agents to represent to the king's ministers, their sense of the suspending act, and to pray for its repeal. Thus we should have borne our testimony against it; and might therefore reasonably expect that, on a like occasion, we might receive the same assistance from the other colonies.

American Intelligence.

BOSTON, November 23.

We hear from Marblehead, that a fisherman arrived there last Friday night from the banks of Newfoundland, and that the master and people belonging to her give the following extraordinary account, viz. That on the banks of Newfoundland being at anchor, they were very much surprised to observe their vessel run direct in the wind's eye at a considerable rate, they have their log line, and found she went above 7 knots, (not being able to purchase their anchor) and continued so to their great astonishment for 36 hours, without being able to account for this unusual occurrence; when a large whale hove up, seemingly much tired, they then hove towards him, and got so nigh, as to discern the whale had got their anchor in his jaws; they still hove nigher, and threw their fish hook into the ring of their anchor, but being under fearful apprehensions of danger, they cut their cable.—Several other fishermen being in sight, were greatly surprised to see this vessel run direct to windward without any sail, and hove up their anchors and came to sail.—Note. If any of the whalemen should happen to take the whale, they are desired to return the anchor to the owner in Marblehead.

Philadelphia, Nov. 26. A letter from Pensacola of the 24th of August says, "It is very sickly here at present, William Leitch, Esq; chief justice of this place died the 16th instant, and many other people have died this summer."

Philadelphia, November 30. Sunday last capt. Bulkley, arrived here in 7 weeks from Lisbon, by whom we have the following intelligence, viz. That the Count de la Lippe, General Primo of his Most Faithful Majesty's troops, had arrived there from England, whither he had lately been sent on an important negociation to the British court; the result of which remained a secret: But it evidently appeared, that the Portuguese were extremely apprehensive of a war between Great-Britain and Portugal, as their court did not seem inclined to pay the sum of money demanded by that of Great Britain—or to adjust in a proper manner the differences subsisting between the two courts ——That intelligence was received at Lisbon, that the Portuguese had retaken from the Spaniards a place in the Brazils, the name of which the captain could not remember; but it is the same that the Spaniards made themselves masters of in the late war—That a regular ship was daily expected at Lisbon, from the Brazils, with a large quantity of cash on board.—And that a Portuguese Viceroy, from the East-Indies, was arrived at Lisbon, but was immediately arrested and confined in a strong castle, without permitting his friends or relations to see him—the reason of which was not publicly known.

New York, Dec. 7. By a vessel from Albany we learn, that the snow fell in such large quantities, the 22d and 23d of last month, that there was good sledding and it lay above 9 inches on a level quite down to the Highlands.

We hear from Elizabeth-Town, that the hon. col. Sir John St. Clair, Bart. died there last Thursday week, and was buried on Saturday evening following, with all military honours.

New-York, November 30. Capt. Gibbs, in 42 days from the Musquito-shore, informs us, that on the 19th inst. off the Havannah, he spoke with the ship Nancy, Captain Yates, from the Bay, bound for London, who had sprung a leak, but was refused admittance with his ship into the harbour of Havanna and was not permitted even to land out his boat; he acquainted Captain Gibbs, that to sail of the line lay already rigged in the harbour, when he was there; and that he propesed to bear away for South-Carolina, or some other port on the continent.

Newport December 7. Last week his majesty's ship the Garland, Captain St. John, sailed from this port for England. She carried off—(what the Vessel brought here about two years since)—the memorable stamped paper, which was sent by the mother-country, for the use of her children, in this colony; and now returned, in order to be unpacked and distributed.

Philadelphia, December 10. By Captain Guitton, in 30 days from Pensacola, we learn, that the sickness which prevailed there some time ago, was much abated, and that the place was pretty healthy when he came away; and that governor Elliot was daily expected there to take the command of that government.

New York, December 14. Friday last arrived here from South-Carolina, with Captain Schermerhorn, the famous ATTAKULLAKULLA, or the Little-Carpenter, OCUNNASTOTAH, or the Great Warrior, and the RAVEN of TOGGOLOO, with six other Chiefs and Warriors of the Cherokee Nation, accompanied by an Interpreter; and next day they had an audience of his excellency general GAGE, the commander in chief.

All the Field and Staff Officers, at Head Quarters, and those of the corps in this Garrison together with several other gentlemen, attended the general on this occasion.

The chiefs, after being introduced, delivered the letters of recommendation they brought to his excellency, from the Southward; and the Little-Carpenter and Great Warrior alternately addressed him, and implored his interposition and good offices, in directing Sir WILLIAM JOHNSON, the superintendant of Indian affairs, to mediate a peace between their nation, the Cherokees, and the six nations of IROQUOIS, they being deputed here on an embassy for that purpose.

They met with a gracious reception from the general, and his excellency has been pleased to give orders, they shall be properly entertained, and attended, while they remain here.

He promised them his protection in the business they are employed in; and informed them he would give the necessary orders, for their proceeding Tomorrow, on board a sloop for Albany.

The CHIEFS having been informed, that there was a Theatre in this city, expressed a desire of seeing a play acted; and the general has thought proper to gratify their curiosity, and has given directions that proper places shall be got for them in the house, this evening.
